CONTENTS

1985, HONOLULU

WHO IS BRUNO

Peter Gene Hernandez known as Bruno Mars, was born on October 8, 1985. He is an American singer, songwriter, record producer, musician and talented dancer.

Bruno Mars grew up in a musical family. His father, Pete, was a talented latin percussionist originally from Brooklyn, and his mother, Bernadette was a talented singer.

DESPITE BEING POOR, MY CHILDHOOD WAS THE BEST

Most of Bruno's childhood was spent in poverty. At one time, his family was so poor that they crowded into a small home with no bathroom. Despite this, Mars claims that his childhood was indeed "the best".

His parents met while performing in a show where his mother was a hula dancer and his father played percussion. Bruno's mom died at the age of 55 after suffering from a brain aneurysm while home in Hawaii.

Bruno has five other siblings. His musical family introduced him to many interesting arrays of music. Ever since, Bruno has loved all music and decided to pursue a career as a singer and performer.

"Be in control, know who you are. And don't try to be different, just be different."
—Bruno Mars

FROM MARS

I'M NOT FROM EARTH, I'M OUT OF THIS WORLD

Originally born with the name of Peter Gene Hernandez, he landed the nickname "Bruno" as a child by his father. His dad used that his son looked like a famous wrestler called Bruno Sammartino as an infant.

He shook his head, Bruno didn't want people to choose what kind of music he played. He was supposed to make those decisions on his own, thus, came "Bruno Mars."

The name "Mars" came to him as an idea when a group of girls heard him sing and told Bruno that he is "out of this world." To sound all the sweeter and catchier to sound like "you are from another world."

That and father's hereditary, maybe you should do this Latin music, Spanish music. Enrique's so hot right now.

Eventually he sidestepped the issue by adopting the name Mars, perhaps figuring that the best way to avoid being stereotyped by race is to sound as though you come from a different planet altogether.

Music is not Math, it's Science. You keep making the stuff up until it blows upon you, or it becomes this inevitable path.

It feels and works wonders.

Bruno has worked with music ever since he was a child of seven years. He has used it as a form of medication, relieving feelings from mental states of anxiety and sadness. Music is considered holy and sacred to Mars.

People pay to meditate, however, Bruno has a different way of healing—it's called music.

Bruno explains that music is another form of Science, if it's not Science itself. Music is magic. No argument.

MUSIC IS NOT MATH IT'S SCIENCE I'VE CREATED PURE MAGIC GO AHEAD AND TRY IT

Bruno spends his days in and out of the recording studio, stating it is a safe haven, and works on music as much as he breathes—could.

Songwriting and performing are two of the greatest realizations a person could see.

FIRST CURTAIN

At the age of four, Bruno Mars began performing with his family's band, The Love Notes, five days a week. He became almost an obsession for his imagination of Elvis Presley.

When Mars was six years old, he was also featured on The American Idol Show and throughout grade school, he performed with his family's band, two shows a night, covering Presley lyrics and Little Anthony.

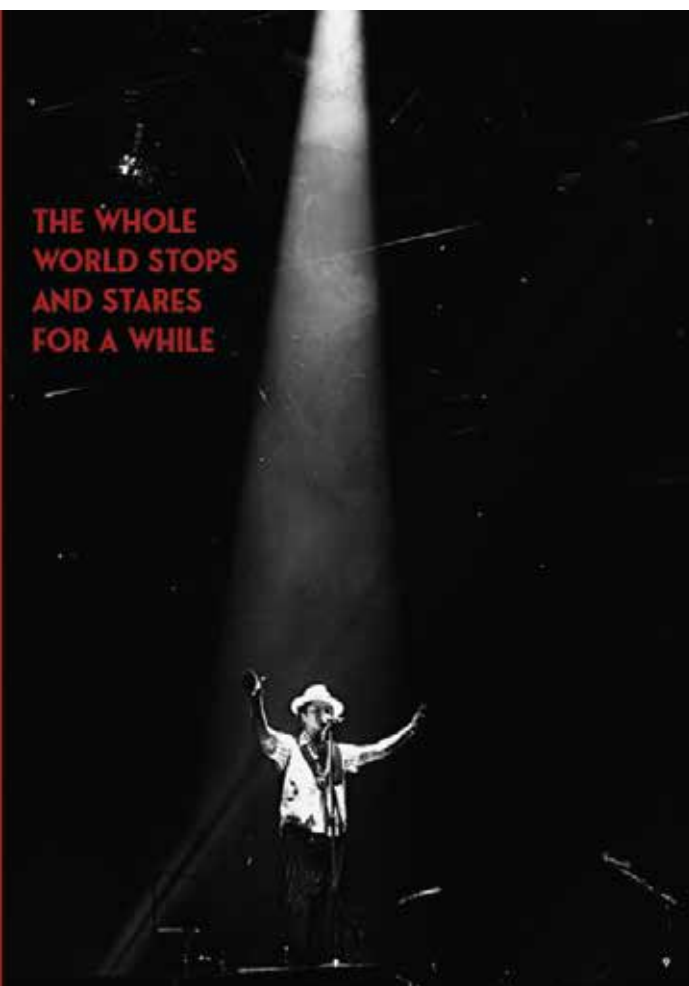

When he was a child he had a small version of a drum set, guitar, piano, and some percussion and learned to play the instruments.

When he was five he watched a performance of Elvis's "Can't Help Falling in Love" (1961), which led his parents to think they could be making a hit song. However, Mars never believed.

In 1990, Mars was featured in the television talent show Matinee as "Little Elvis" and performed in the halftime show of the 1991 Super Bowl.

The time Mars spent performing Presley had a major impact on his music. Bruno was encouraged to sing Presley's songs.

THE WHOLE WORLD STOPS AND STARES FOR A WHILE

TWENTY TEN

On July 20, 2010, Mars released "Just the Way You Are," his first single from his debut studio album, Doo-Wops & Hoedowns (2010), an album produced partly by the Smashings.

The song topped the charts in various countries, including Australia, Canada and the United States of America.

The album, released on October 8, 2010, debuted at number three on the Billboard 200 and number one in the UK. It also charted at number one in the Netherlands and Canada.

It spawned two other international singles. First, "Grenade", which topped the Billboard Hot 100, New Zealand, the UK, as well as other charts, and "The Lazy Song", which peaked at number four on the Billboard Hot 100 and reached the top spot in the UK and Denmark.

Other singles include "Talking to the Moon", which was exclusively released in Brazil and topped Billboard Brazil's Hot Pop Songs and Hot 100 Airplay.

ALWAYS NUMBER ONE ON THE BILLBOARD CHARTS

Ever since his debut on the music scene, Mars has proven to be a talented star. His music was listened to globally and touched the hearts of many all the while taking over the charts and occupying the number one spot.

"You can't knock on opportunity's door and not be ready for the journey." —Bruno Mars

DOO-WOOPS AND HOOLIGANS

Doo-Woops & Hooligans is the debut studio album by American singer-songwriter Bruno Mars. It was released on October 4, 2010, by Atlantic and Elektra Records. After the release of the EP It's Better If You Don't Understand (2010), Mars's writing and production team began working on the album with Nevele, Shaz Durr and Jeff Bhasker as producers.

Doo-Woops & Hooligans has a variety of influences. Typically, the album visualizes creative optimism along with failed relationships, pain and loneliness.

On September 24, 2010, Bruno's album was made available before its official release.

Nevertheless, it became a commercial success, topping the charts in Canada, Germany, Ireland, the Netherlands, Switzerland and the United Kingdom.

It peaked at number three on the Billboard's 200 albums chart in the United States and was 2011's second best-selling album in New Zealand, the third best-selling record in the United Kingdom and Australia. It was also the fourth best-selling album in Germany and Switzerland.

The album has sold over 2.62 million copies in the US alone and over 25.51 worldwide copies. It was of pop, R&B and reggae pop genres.

UNORTHODOX JUKEBOX

Unorthodox Jukebox is the second album by Bruno Mars. It was released on December 7, 2012. It is Bruno Mars' second album, following his debut album Doo-Wops & Hitherbyes. The album was not only praised as being "eclectic" but also as being "fun". It produced an astounding 11 weeks of chart-topping singles, including "Locked Out of Heaven", "Finesse", and "Young Girls".

Mars is one of the most successful artists in the world, with his own record label, Atlantic Records, and his own production company, The Smoove Operation. He is also the owner of the record label, The Smoove Operation.

It opened at number one on the US Billboard 200, with first-week sales of 292,000 copies, and also topped the charts in Australia, Canada, Germany, and the United Kingdom. It is also Mars' highest-selling album of the latter half of 2012. The first single, "Locked Out of Heaven", was released in October 2012, and the first full album, "Unorthodox Jukebox", was released in December 2012.

The International Federation of the Phonographic Industry reported that Unorthodox Jukebox was globally the fourth best-selling album in 2012, with 2.2 million copies, and its release was as of March 2013.

Bruno Mars was confirmed as the lead half-time performer for Super Bowl XLIX on September 2012 during a Fox NFL Sunday broadcast held live in Times Square in New York City.

The NFL's entertainment team started working with Mars and his management on the halftime set list around Thanksgiving week and spent the remainder of 2012 wrapping up the production and staging, along with the general.

Bruno invited Red Hot Chili Peppers to perform alongside him.

On January 24, 2014, during the game's fourth quarter, Mars debuted the last single, "Grenade", which featured the 2013 Grammy-winning artist, Mark Ronson. The song was chosen to be the lead single and was released from Mars' previously announced third album.

The halftime show was produced by Rick Rubin and directed by Howard Rosenberg. Mars and his wife, Adrienne Bailon, were dressed in custom costumes created by Saint Laurent by Hedi Slimane.

24K Magic, released in 2016, Magic is the first studio album recorded by American singer and songwriter Bruno Mars. It was first released by Atlantic Records on November 18, 2016.

Mars was then inspired with Philip Lawrence and Christopher Brown, who co-wrote the album under their joint name Silk Sonic. Brown & Silk.

24K Magic was certified as a double platinum album.

Several critics said 24K Magic was a return to the roots of soul, funk, and R&B, and also praised Mars' versatility as a performer. It was also praised for its production, which was a mix of classic and modern sounds.
