Interests

Programming , running .

-I first became interested in computing at the age of sixteen when I decided to enroll on a computer course online, where I was taught computer systems and word processing. The course served to deepen my interest in computers and a few months later I decided to learn my first programming language "python", here i felt that power when i first wrote "hello word", plus this summer I took a data science course.

- I started running at a young age, then i earned a medal in running at aspire zone Qatar.
