PROFILE SUMMARY

I am a Full Stack Developer who has gained three years of valuable experience working in various companies. Most recently, I had the opportunity to work with Interphase, a startup, where I played a role in developing a comprehensive platform. Interphase, consisting of four departments: marketing, management, finance, and software team, is a collaborative environment for me to contribute my expertise. I have a strong foundation in software engineering, backed by a Bachelor's degree in Information Technology from the Lebanese University.
