“LEB Auction System” Web App —

“LEB Auction System” The article addresses the frustrations that buyers and sellers face when trying to find the best deals and advertise their products. Buyers spend time scouring different stores for the best deals while sellers often have to pay for short term ads on apps and websites. The article proposes a solution to solve this issue. The proposal is to create a web application for an auction system where buyers and sellers can interact and exchange products fairly through a bidding process.
