I'm a 3D animation artist with a bachelor's degree in Animation Cinema. Over the years, I've worked on three short films—both solo and in teams—where I honed my skills in storytelling and problem-solving. I've also had the chance to intern in the video game and communication industries, working on digital magazines and Metaverse-related projects. I like to keep learning and improving, whether it's by experimenting with different art forms or getting feedback to push my work further. Plus, I'm comfortable navigating various software and figuring out creative solutions when things go sideways
