ABOUT MYSELF

19 year of age with a strong interest in the intersection of human cognition and technology. I'm drawn to understanding how people think and interact with digital systems, and how that knowledge can be used to build technology that genuinely serves people rather than exploiting their attention. Beyond academics, I actively pursue entrepreneurial projects that challenge me to turn ideas into real-world impact. I'm driven by curiosity, analytical thinking, and a long-term goal of working in human factors and responsible AI design.
